HER HEAD GOES WITH HER HEART For Every Best a Nod-A Young

Woman's Strange Affiction.

HUNTINGDON, Pa., Oct. 12.—During the pass eight weeks Miss Emma Horneame, a promine young lady of this place, has laid in bed with her head securely strapped to the pillow. Two months ago while preparing for church the felt a sharp and sudden soap like the break ing of a cord at the back of her neck. This was accompanied by a violent pain issuing from the heart to the base of the brain.

Since then at every heart-best her head has made a violent and responsive nod, first forward and then backward, with the regularity and precision of a clock pendulum, in either movement her head passes from the perpendicular about one foot.

The young lady's general health is but slightly impaired. The local physicians are nonpussed over the strange affection.

Philip Schwarts, the complainant, said that he was sleeping in his shoe store at Seventy-fourth attreet and Columbus avenue at 3 o'clock this morning, and was awakened by a great crash. Running to the front of the store he saw that a paving stone had been huiled through the platteglass window. A man was standing in front of the window, who ran away on finding himself allscovered. He was caught by Policeman Dermedy, of the West Slaty-cighth street station, on Seventy-third street, between Amsterdam and Columbus avenues. He had a large fragment of the broken show window in his hand.

Horserot told the Court that he fired the stone at a cut and accidentially bruke the window. But this plea didn't work, and he was held to answer.
